Attorney Leonard "Abdul Latif" Bennett, The Bennett Groups' principal counsel on Islamic matters, is a Pennsylvania licensed attorney with over 20 years experience. He is a frequent television feature commentator, and his unique enthusiasm for the Law and Islam has made him a highly sought after speaker and consultant to both national and international audiences. He is also the author of the soon to be released book "Carpet Rides: Understanding Your Muslim Coworker, Neighbor and Friend."

Attorney Bennett is a dedicated Muslim and member of the Ahmadiyya Muslim Community, a globally recognized peaceful sect in Islam. Specializing in Title VII matters, he provides a rare insight that is simply missing in the analysis of legal issues concerning Muslims. He firmly believes and proves that large judgments and settlements in otherwise well managed operations, are clear evidence that training is only as good as its perspective.

The perils of overlooking the motives and inspirations of Muslim employees is becoming more costly

... at times having tragic consequences.

THOUGHT LEADERSHIP

Religious Discrimination claims by Muslims are one of the fastest growing segments of employment discrimination. Workplace Violence perpetrated by radicalized employees is also a new phenomena. Employers often lack sufficient understanding of the factors which make a work environment vulnerable to the religiously disgruntled employee.

The Bennett Group bridges the understanding gap between the inanimate requirements of Title VII and the mercurial demands of a fervent religion. The advice and presentations by Attorney Abdul Latif Bennett are based upon both the Federal Laws which govern employers and the intimate beliefs and practices which instruct Muslim employees. Geared toward management, his eye opening presentations and trainings are always a pleasant learning experience.
